

The optimal mix – the trimodal supply chain by Contargo

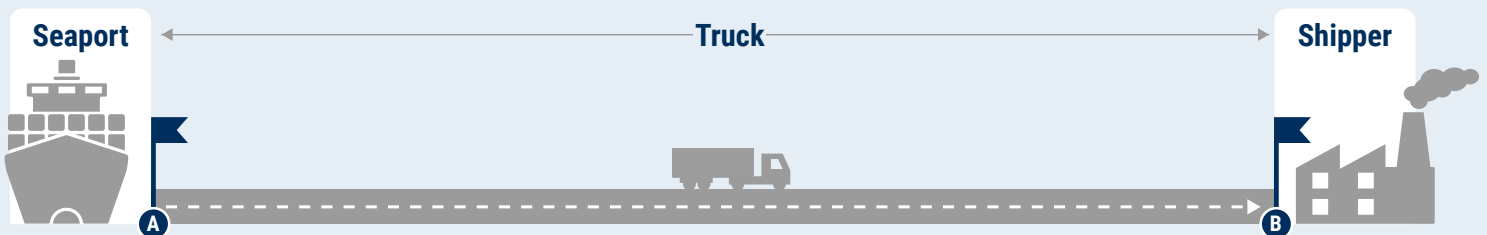

From the seaport to the hinterland terminal by barge, from the terminal to the shipper by truck - and vice versa.

From the seaport to the hinterland terminal by train, from the terminal to the shipper by truck - and vice versa.

By feeder from the seaport to a trimodal Hub in the hinterland, on by rail from the Hub to a combined transport terminal. From there by truck to the shipper - and vice versa.

From the seaport by direct trucking to the shipper, and vice versa.